PARK PRELIMINARIES

JOINT MEETING OF STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES TO CONSIDER MEMORIAL

A meeting which may lead to action of great importance to Glendale, was held in the office of Superintendent Richardson D. White in the Intermediate School Monday evening. It was a joint meeting of the special committee appointed by the Greater Glendale Development Association to investigate the practicability of a combined park and civic center as a Soldiers' Memorial, and the standing committee on Parks and Playgrounds of the association.

The special committee of which Richardson D. White was made chairman, includes W. B. Kirk, Mattison B. Jones, Henry R. Harrower, T. W. Watson, Clarence L. Jay and J. Herbert Smith.

The standing committee referred to consists of Charles L. Chandler, chairman, Capt. D. Ripley Jackson and T. W. Watson.

Mr. White was made chairman of the joint meeting and Mr. Jay its secretary.

The object of the meeting was to consider in a general way the proposition for a park and civic center in combination. After a little discussion it was thought best to appoint sub-committees to investigate the different phases of the matter and report at another joint committee meeting to be held next Monday evening at the same place. Members will then, it is thought, be in a position to put forth some definite plan.

The first sub-committee appointed consisted of T. W. Watson and J. Herbert Smith. The work laid out for it was the investigation of the bonding capacity of Glendale with reference to a bond issue for the purpose in mind. Its members are to ascertain to what extent bonding will be practicable without trespassing on other interests of Glendale for which a bond issue might be needed.

Dr. Harrower and Mr. Jay formed the personnel of the second sub-committee.

SOMOAC CLUB

The reorganized Somoac Club, composed of members of the Art Department, will meet for an initiation March 4th. On account of the interruption of school work the club has not met heretofore this year. Ordinarily it meets once a month, its enrollment being confined to students who have had two or more units of art work. Shrove Tuesday has come to be the day in the year when all the art clubs have a frolic. This one will be no exception and its gathering March 4th will be called "The Court of Bubbles." It will be held in the rooms of the department, under the direction of Miss M. Irene Mueller, head of the art work of Glendale High.

"WINGED WORDS"

DR. REINHARDT THUS CHARACTERIZES THE POTENT UTTERANCES OF POETS

Members of the Tuesday Afternoon Club enjoyed an unusual and very beautiful exposition of the spirit of democracy which runs like a golden thread through the literature of all times and peoples, and which has been the inspiration of their advance. It was made by Dr. Aurelia Reinhardt, head of Mills College in Oakland, and was the more effective because it came at a time when all thought is centering on the league of nations as a possible factor in safeguarding the interests of the weak everywhere.

Previous to her introduction to her fine audience by the president of the Club, Mrs. W. W. Ramsay, vocal numbers were given by Mrs. H. E. MacMullin, accompanied by her daughter; and the Club adopted a resolution endorsing Mrs. Mattison B. Jones for the office of vice-president at large of the District Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Literature is the residue of the life of the past," the speaker declared. She showed that in the various types of literature the idea of democracy has been bodied forth; that in the literature of religion, for instance, we find some of the finest pronouncements of the democratic idea.

"You will find," she said, "that in all the great religions the human entities are equally valuable in the sight of God, but it remained for that faith essentially the faith of the Anglo Saxon, for Christianity to have the most perfect literary statement of the democracy of religion, because it tells of the fatherhood of God and

GRAMMAR SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT A DEMOCRATIC AFFAIR

Superintendent R. D. White is anxious that Glendale should understand that the mid-winter commencement exercises of the grammar schools which take place Friday evening at Glendale Union High School are democratic. Each graduate has been allowed a limited number of tickets for parents and friends which entitle them to reserved seats, but the general public will be made very welcome in the balance of the auditorium without tickets.

SALVAGE INSTITUTE

GLENDAL REPRESENTATIVES ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PROFITABLE PASADENA MEETING

Representatives of the Glendale Red Cross Chapter who journeyed to Pasadena Tuesday to attend the "Salvage Institute" are enthusiastic over what they saw and heard there. Mrs. Hartley Shaw conveyed the party (which included Mr. L. T. Rowley and Mesdames W. W. Worley, H. E. Bartlett and Jack Boettner) in her automobile.

The meeting opened at 9:30, when members of the Pacific Division presented various phases of salvage and shop work in an interesting manner by pictures and by articles manufactured. A rather remarkable exhibit was made by Miss Booth of San Francisco of garments useful and ornamental made from materials collected in salvage and sold in the Red Cross shops. There were also lantern slides illustrating the work of chapters, and interesting reports submitted.

A luncheon was served at the chapter canteen at noon.

It is expected that hereafter the local chapters will be financed by receipts from salvage. This will include the work of the home service department for soldiers and sailors and their families, and because of this fact citizens should aid in every way the salvage work of the Glendale chapter. Its expenditures for the home service work vary from month to month, but often amount to several hundreds of dollars, which go out in the form of loans which will eventually be repaid by the recipients, but which are urgently needed now in the transition, reconstruction period before back pay is received and before the soldiers and sailors are re-established in civilian life.

DEATH OF MRS. L. W. BABCOCK

Mrs. L. W. Babcock, of 413 North Isabel street, died at 5:50 a. m., February 26, 1919, at the age of 65 years, after an illness which resulted from a fall. She was born in Mahoning county, Ohio, and had been a resident of Glendale but two months, coming here from her home in Rockyford, Colo. She is survived by her husband and five children, a son in Colorado, a son in Chicago, two daughters in Pittsburg, Pa., and in Sioux Falls, Dakota, and a daughter who was with her when she died. It is expected that some of her children and other relatives will be present at the funeral services which will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Jewel City Parlors on Brand boulevard, with interment in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Rev. Charles H. Scott will have charge of the services.

CORRUPTED BY STUDIES IN PSYCHOLOGY

BRILLIANT STUDENT AND LECTURER ON CRIMINOLOGY KILLED BY POLICE WHILE CRACKING A SAFE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 26.—Special Policeman E. H. Peters shot and killed Thornton Rollins, formerly an instructor in psychology at the University of California, early today, when he found Rollins attempting to open a safe in the office of the Western Motor Car Co.

Rollins had just been discharged from the army medical corps at Camp Kearny, and was still wearing his uniform under overalls. Rollins had been unable to get work, it was said.

When Peters entered the office Rollins turned and began firing. Peters fired once, Rollins being fatally injured, and he died a few hours later.

Police investigation showed that Rollins had been leading a dual life. Two travelling bags found in his room contained jewelry and several hundred dollars. The police believe the contents of the bags had been stolen from Berkeley homes, and that possibly Rollins was responsible for a recent series of mysterious robberies at the University of California fraternity houses.

Professor Brown, head of the psychology department at the University, said that Rollins was a brilliant student who gave promise of attaining great honors as a psychologist. He had been a lecturer on criminology.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

They have issued an ultimatum to the government to disband parliament and place Portugal's administration in the hands of a soviet.

PRESIDENT EBERT PROPOSES COMPROMISE

WOULD MAKE NATIONAL WORKERS' SOVIET THE LOWER BRANCH OF GOVERNMENT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Weimar, Feb. 26.—President Ebert of Germany favors the retention of the National Workers' Soviet as the lower legislative branch of the government. He believes the soviet cannot be crushed and that its members will not be pacified with anything short of formal recognition and government authority. Ebert would give them power to deal with all internal questions, but no power to veto measures passed by the upper house.

Chancellor Scheidemann and other members of the cabinet have not accepted Ebert's plan and deny the necessity of recognizing the soviet.

FEDERAL APPROPRIATION LEGISLATION

COMMITTEES ACT ON HUNDRED MILLION LAND RECLAMATION BILL AND NAVAL PROGRAM BILL

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Feb. 26.—The Senate public lands committee today favorably reported Secretary Lane's bill appropriating one hundred million dollars for reclaiming land for returning soldiers.

The Senate naval committee voted to report out the naval appropriation bill containing the increased naval building program and empowering the President to cancel the program if the formation of a league of nations makes cancellation advisable.

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK IN NEW YORK

Washington, Feb. 26.—The President probably will speak in New York on March 3 or 4, on the league of nations, it was declared here today.

This afternoon he plans to hold conferences at the Capitol with various party leaders on the subject of speeding up legislation.

ED LEE HAVING GOOD TIME RECOVERING FROM ILLNESS

Mrs. Ed Lee reports that her husband, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at Thornycroft Hospital, is making a very satisfactory recovery and is now able to walk and ride every day, though the doctor has not given permission for his return to business until several weeks have elapsed. Mr. and Mrs. Lee have been entertaining this week Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Baxter, of Seattle, Wash., cousins of Mrs. Lee.

INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT

ROY L. KENT SUBMITS PLANS AT GREATER GLENDALE DEVELOPMENT MEETING

The regular weekly meeting of the Greater Glendale Development Association was held Tuesday evening in the library of the Intermediate School building, corner of Wilson and Kenwood streets. Chairman Wells being absent at the opening of the meeting, W. B. Kirk was elected president, pro tem., and served in this capacity until the arrival of Mr. Wells half an hour later.

Very complete proceedings of the previous meeting were read by Secretary C. D. Lusby.

According to announcement at previous meetings the industrial question was taken up for the first business. Roy L. Kent, chairman of the committee, had very carefully prepared a map showing the plans approved by his committee. The map represented territory along the San Fernando Road, near Broadway. Mr. Kent prefaced his remarks by stating that never in the history of Glendale had the city been able to offer manufacturers greater advantages than now providing they secure a site, but as conditions have been in the past, without any advantages to offer those seeking to establish factories it is impossible for us to get them. Glendale is located on the main line of a natural gas system and gas may be purchased for manufacturing purposes at wholesale prices. Electric power is being sold in Glendale for manufacturing purposes at $1.75 which is a lower price than in many manufacturing cities. "The territory we recommend for a manufacturing site is situated on the Southern Pacific Railroad where many trains pass daily and on the San Fernando Road which is one of the greatest highways in Southern California," he said. "The location is an excellent one for publicity purposes, as thousands upon thousands of people pass that point daily." Mr. Kent stated that he had options on several pieces of land, one a nine-acre tract, another five acres, and another, ten. He said the price would range from $1200 to $2000 per acre, and the probable cost of an industrial district suitable for Glendale would be $52,000, with about $16,000 added for building

WASHINGTON DINNER

Last Saturday evening, Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Willisford entertained at a four-course dinner, teachers and officers of the Congregational Sunday School. It was a Washington affair, with flags freely employed in decoration and red carnations centering the table, small red hatchets serving as dinner cards. To promote discussion of Sunday School problems, slips bearing verses in rhyme were scattered over the cloth propounding questions.

Covers were laid for the following guests: Mrs. George Adams, Mrs. C. N. Van Dyke, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Shaw, Mrs. H. W. Yarrick, Mrs. A. H. Chapman, Mrs. P. V. Potter, Mrs. Blake Franklin, Mrs. Harry Bullinger, Mrs. W. D. McRae, Miss Vantine Smith, Miss Callie Porter, Ralph Beers, Mrs. Geo. Colson, Mrs. King, C. H. Andrew.

MR. AND MRS. TOWER ENTERTAIN

Washington's Birthday was celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Tower of 615 South Adams Street with a little dinner in which the national colors featured decorations and table appointments. In the floral decorations of the table red and white sweet peas were used and bowls of violets, while flags in groups of three in small standards made a brighter note of color, the red, white and blue being repeated in place cards and bon-bon boxes. The dinner was followed by an evening of music and sociability before a big open fire. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Tower and their daughter, Ruth.

ORCHARD MEETING

FINE DEMONSTRATION OF CITRUS PRUNING BY PROF. COIT AT HEACOCK RANCH

The pruning demonstration staged by Professor Coit, Director of the Farm Bureau Movement in Southern California, Monday afternoon, at the home of Professor A. B. Heacock at 709 E. Windsor was most gratifying to its promoters as it was largely attended and followed with great interest and enthusiasm by citrus growers. It is Professor Coit's specialty, who is considered the greatest expert in that line in Southern California. He and his corps of assistants are employed by the Federal Government to promote the citrus industry by giving orchardists all the help possible in the way of instruction on how to meet their various difficulties. Instead of going to Berkeley or Davis it is possible for the orchardist to secure the advice of specialists right in his own orchard, as Farm Bureau under Professor Coit has headquarters in the County Court House and can be called upon or telephoned at any time.

The orchard of Professor Heacock was considered a very favorable place for such a demonstration as he has a considerable variety of trees and it is in excellent condition except for the fact that it has been improperly trimmed by men ignorant of the science of trimming. He emphasized the need of keeping trees clear of suckers and the evils of "stubbing back," the particular fault shown in the Heacock orchard. It will take, he says, several years for an orchard to recover from "stubbing back" received at the hands of amateurs.

A large delegation headed by L. B. Doan, president of the local Farm Bureau, came from Burbank, where the farmers are much alive to the value of such instruction as Professor Coit had to give. There were also many visitors from Los Angeles and vicinity, the list including Mr. Merrick of the Jefferson High School, E. J. Hargitt, Supervisor of the Sentons and Endo Schools, Mrs. Hartley, Supervisor of Agricultural Work at the Virgil School, Mrs. Marie Larkey, Director of Agricultural Education in the Los Angeles Schools, and others interested in the work.

Associated with Professor Coit at Bureau Headquarters is Mrs. Jessica Hazzard, who has charge of the domestic side of Farm Bureau Work, the preserving of fruits and canning of vegetables, etc. Mrs. Hazzard has had a chance to get acquainted with the women of Glendale through her conservation lectures here.

MID-YEAR GRADUATION

TEN GRADUATES OF GLENDALE UNION HIGH TO RECEIVE SHEEPSKINS THURSDAY

Thursday evening, February 27th, the mid-winter class of 1919 of Glendale Union High School will have their commencement in the assembly hall of the school in which they have spent so many pleasant years. It is a small class of but ten members, but is said to make up in quality what it lacks in numbers.

One of the most interesting features of its program will be the class prophecy written by Erma Patterson and Donald Wieman, which has been cast in dramatic form for production that night with all members of the class taking part. There will also be a musical program arranged by Mrs. Dora Gibson, head of the musical department, and an address by some distinguished orator. Following is the class roll:

RETURN OF RED CROSS WORK

Mrs. Jodon, chairman of the sewing department of the Glendale Red Cross Chapter, is issuing a call for the return of all garments now out in the hands of Red Cross workers whether they be finished or not. A shipment is to be made in a few days and those which are not finished can be completed at the work-room and packed with the rest.

SOURCE OF HEALTH

The Chinese pay the doctors to keep them well, a deduction being made from the fee if the patient is ill.

There is much to be said in favor of this idea, or of any idea which sets up the prevention of disease as the desirable proceeding rather than elaborate methods of treatment after the harm is done.

In line with this more intelligent method of procedure is a suggestion made by Secretary Houston in a recent address. "To promote rural health and sanitation," says the secretary, "an effective sanitary survey should be made of the country, the sources of such diseases as typhoid fever should be eradicated, steps taken to control hookworm and mosquitoes, districts be given the advantage of modern hospitals, nursing and specialized medical practice."

While his remarks were especially intended for regions remote from city advantages, they are none the less worthy of attention in any community.

Effective sanitary surveys are generally too little prosecuted. The removal of the sources of any disease or epidemic is the only sane method of combating it.

We shall never be truly civilized until we learn that preventable disease is synonymous with disgrace, and points unerringly to culpable neglect by the individual, or (in case of the commonly recurrent epidemic) by the authorities having the public health in charge. If health authorities had the force and ability and were given the power to prevent the frequent recurrence of typhoid, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough, etc., all of which are unquestionably preventable diseases, they would be better equipped by their own ability and experience and by enlightened public sentiment and legal facilities to cope with such difficult and unusual epidemics as that which is now ravaging the country to such an extent as to make our war mortality seem trivial.—Santa Ana Register.

FOLLOWING PUBLIC SENTIMENT

A newspaper paragrapher once made the remark that the fact that everybody wanted to get a certain idea enacted into legislation was sufficient to show that Congress wouldn't do it. Of course he didn't mean this literally. Everyone knows that politicians take a great deal of pains to ascertain public sentiment.

It is a fact, however, that men who make a business of politics make serious mistakes in estimating public sentiment. There is a great mass of people who give little attention to public questions. On any question that they have not considered much, they are apt to be swayed by prejudices, misinformation and by persons having a selfish interest.

At the same time, the mass of the people are honest, sincere and intelligent enough when they give their settled attention to a thing. So it happens that the most astonishing reversals of public opinion take place within a short time.

Where the politicians make their mistake is in being swayed too much by the superficial opinions that are widely prevalent at the moment. They disregard too much the real merits of public issues. It is all very well for the politician to keep his ear to the ground, as the phrase goes. But let him listen to the people who are the real leaders of opinion and do the original thinking.

Every community has a certain minority of people, not always conspicuous, who do their own quiet thinking. They work things out in their own minds, unaffected by any personal schemes. The influence these people exert on public sentiment is amazing. Errors tend to kill themselves, but a sound common sense opinion, but yesterday held obscurely, tends to spread and soon becomes the view of the mass. Then you see the politicians running for the band wagon after it has passed.

DOG TO HAVE HIS DAY

Now that the British government has issued an official report on the services of trained dogs with the British army, the dog is bound to have a new standing in society. After reading of such exploits as the one where the shepherd dog ran two and one-half miles in ten minutes, part of the way through a deadly barrage, with a message calling for reinforcements that saved the day, you may think that all the dogs were pure-breds. But they were not. The report says that "the first dog recruits came from various homes for lost dogs, and many a soldier owes his life to a stray dog saved from the lethal chamber by the war." A majority of the dogs that were trained for the service were strays of the common variety, which were picked up by the police and sent to the training school for dogs.

When the soldiers return from the front there will be stories told of the faithful, silent, dumb messengers that will put to shame, perhaps, some of the human slackers who contributed far less to their country in its time of need. For a brief review of the official report of the war records of these dogs makes no mention of any conscientious objectors among them. They were used not only as messengers, but as searchers through No Man's Land for wounded soldiers, and they were used as sentinels, and they made good wherever they were trusted.

When the soldiers come home we may have to abolish the time-honored custom of shying donkeys at every stray dog we see. Many a stray dog in London, that could not afford a license, won a service flag, a life pension and an honorable citation on a field of glory. There is almost sure to be a feeling of comradeship between the soldier who saw fighting and the dog that served him while he fought which we who stay at home will not be able to understand.—Kansas City Star.

PEACERS MUST BRING SEA TO MANY NATIONS

(By United Press)
PARIS, Feb. 1. (By Mail).—One of the nice little mathematical problems the peace conference has to solve is how to make a maritime power out of a land-locked one.

The states now facing this problem are Poland, Hungary, Bohemia, Bulgaria and the new Turkish empire of Asiatic Turkey, the two latter being deprived of access to the sea only in case the peace conference accepts the Greek solution of the near-east problem.

Poland is fighting hard for some sort of settlement that will enable her to have a Baltic Sea outlet at Danzig. Prussian territory lies in the way, but Prussian territory no longer is considered much of an obstacle.

The Hungarian state that presumably will result from the dismemberment of Austria-Hungary, as well as Czechoslovakia, appear to be thoroughly shut off from the sea. Greece wants to cut Asiatic Turkey and Bulgaria off from Salt water, and make Constantinople either Greek or international.

MORE HOMES ESSENTIAL

(By United Press)
LONDON, Feb. 4. (By Mail).—The government has decided to subsidize building in an effort to reduce rents and relieve congestion in London. Announcement of this was made by the Reconstruction Ministry which advises building of dwellings now despite the unusually high cost. It offers to rebate 75 per cent. of the loss on homes built now if the property has decreased in value at the end of five years.

Personals

Mrs. H. F. Fryer, of 1424 North Pacific avenue, who has been ill for a week, is just getting around again.

Chester Weaver, who has been in the Navy, returned home last week to be discharged and to return to school.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clark are anticipating daily the return of Mr. Clark's brother, Frank Clark, who has been in army service in England in the tank corps. He was sent home recently and they received a dispatch announcing his arrival in San Francisco where he was to be discharged.

Quite a party from Glendale motored to Los Angeles to see Maxine Elliott and William Faversham in "Lord and Lady Algy," at the Majestic Theatre, the group including Mrs. W. W. Worley, Mrs. Edna Abell, Mrs. A. R. Chappell, Mrs. Gertrude Follansbee and Mr. and Mrs. Blake Franklin.

The regular all-day meeting of N. P. Banks Post and Corps will be held Friday, February 28th, at Grand Army Hall on Glendale avenue. The "swap party" will take place at 11:45 and all members are requested to bear this event in mind and bring packages that they may participate in the fun. A good time is promised all who attend.

Mrs. Brooks, who had quarters in the Irish Linen Store and who has been considerably inconvenienced since it vacated on Brand boulevard, expects to swap with the Glendale Phonograph & Piano Company, which is having the store remodeled in the expectation of moving in March 1st, at which time she will transfer her business to the store that company is now occupying. Mrs. Dennison will be associated with her.

A. G. Cornwell and W. W. Hamilton leave today on a fishing trip to the Ventura River. Reports of the good luck of anglers in that popular resort are such that they cannot resist trying their fortunes. In the window of the Cornwell & Kelly store are war souvenirs brought back by Sergeant Flower, including his helmet and gas mask. They expect to make additions to the collection from the store brought by Ed Krachy.

The Mutual Reading Circle is being entertained today by Mrs. Charles H. Toll, at her home on Kenneth Road, at a special meeting to celebrate the third anniversary of the organization. Mrs. Toll returned Saturday from San Francisco where she went to attend the congress to promote the league of nations as the delegate of the Los Angeles Ebell Club. She reports it was a wonderful and most inspiring gathering of representative men and women from all parts of the United States, the audiences numbering eight and ten thousand.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Whiting and several other music lovers of Glendale motored to Los Angeles Tuesday night to hear the wonderful new singer, Anna Case, a purely American product trained in this country. Mrs. Whiting is most enthusiastic in her account of the concert and the wonderful vocal stunts of this lyric soprano, who did not make a point of wonderful vocal stunts, but moved her audience by her feeling and dramatic interpretations which fairly swept them off their feet particularly when, in response to an encore she sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," signaling to the audience to join in the third verse. They rose to their feet en masse and joined to a man in that wonderful hymn. Mr. and Mrs. Whiting were accompanied by Mrs. Letts.

Population of Glendale is given in the new 1919 City Directory at 12,007. Growing some, eh! Be proud of it and get a new directory. Price, $3.00 this week only.

trackage. Mr. Kent is very enthusiastic over the question of establishing an industrial district in Glendale, but does not favor encouraging large manufacturing concerns that would tend to make a great amount of smoke and confusion. He said what Glendale needs is neat, clean factories that will be a credit to the city.

Mr. Kent's talk was followed by numerous questions and suggestions. Dr. Harrower suggested that fifty men form a corporation which would be conducted on the plan of a building and loan association. Other methods were suggested as to how the project might be successfully financed. City Attorney Evans being present was asked if the city could legally be bonded for the purchase of an industrial district. He gave as his opinion that it could not. A communication was read from Rev. C. R. Norton endorsing the industrial district proposition. The secretary read several communications from outside concerns who wished to consider locating industrial activities in Glendale.

It was the opinion of those present that industries now located at other points in Glendale than that of the proposed industrial district should be allowed to remain in their present location even after an industrial district has been established. In closing the discussion on this question the chair ruled that it be taken up for the first order of business at the next meeting, Tuesday evening, March 4th.

The postoffice question was then taken up for consideration. Several additional complaints were offered against postoffice service by Dr. Harrower, chairman of the committee and Secretary C. D. Lusby read a number of communications from patrons of the office which clearly set forth that Glendale mail service needs reorganizing. Mr. Lusby also stated that the officials of the Los Angeles postoffice had notified him that there would be a representative from their office meet the Glendale Postoffice committee at his office in the Glendale Savings Bank Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Dr. Harrower then announced that all members of his committee are requested to meet in his office at 7:30 Wednesday evening. Chairman Wells invited all the people of Glendale who could attend the hearing Thursday at 9 o'clock at the Glendale Savings Bank to do so. The Memorial Park question was called for discussion and Richardson D. White, superintendent of Glendale City Schools and Chairman of the Special Park committee, gave briefly an account of the work of his committee in conjunction with the official committee of the Greater Glendale Development Association. A very full report of the work of these committees is published elsewhere in this issue of the Evening News.

The chair announced that the Park question would be one of the important subjects to be taken up at the next meeting. At that time Mr. White's committees will be present and make a complete report. The week following there will likely be a mass meeting in which all the people of Glendale will be asked to participate.

This meeting of the Greater Glendale Development Association was more largely attended than any of the preceding meetings and those present spoke words of praise at the very suitable room in which the meeting was held.

GOES FISHING

C. O. Pulliam left at noon today for the Ventura River to try his luck in catching steelheads. He accompanied a party of Hollywood business men who are grabbing this chance for an outing as the season closes Friday.

COBLENZ ON RHINE

This is the story of the "softships" of the Third American army. For the Yankee troops who were assigned to take and hold the Coblenz bridgehead are leading the life of Riley on the Rhine.

They are stretching out at night in such billets as they never dreamed of in the days before the armistice. The officers and men are dwelling, all of them, in such comfort as they had not known since last their own front gates swung to behind them.

They are living, some of them, in such elegance as they had never known before in all their days, nor will again. Every incident and circumstance of their daily existence is tremendously and dramatically different from what it would have been had the war gone on—and January with its rain and snow coming on.

The house that shelters the headquarters of the 32d division at Rengsdorf is the kind of modern palace our senators build when the Fifth Avenue urge is on them. The 1st division staff is worrying along at Montabaur in such a structure as you would expect to find all planned in a "Town and Country" article under the title "How to Be Beautiful Though an Office Building."

Now that the grenade-throwing season is over, the 166th infantry has moved into a glass house at Oberwinter. Its regimental headquarters is basking in the solarium of a country club whose window walls look down on the magical Rhine which flows by to the strains not of the Lorelei, but of the regimental band at practice.

It is probable that when Gen. Douglas MacArthur was dwelling in a fragrant French barn in the Argonne he little guessed that after his Christmas dinner he would have his coffee and cigar in the sumptuous billiard room of his own castle on the Rhine. He is unlikely to forget his present headquarters, and yet he will not remember it quite so vividly (or so fondly) as he will that chateau in St. Benoit where, at the time of the St. Mihiel drive, he scandalized the First American army by setting up the headquarters of his brigade in the front line—three kilometers ahead of, not behind, his regimentals—there to stay till he was literally shelled out.

But not merely generals are at ease. Doughboys of a lesser rank—such as privates—are billeted in hotels and cosy houses.—From Stars and Stripes.

GERMAN CITIES YANKEEZED

(By United Press)
COBLENZ, Feb. 4. (By Mail).—The Americanization of the villages and towns in the occupied area is in full sway, aided by the powerful influence of the doughboy's plentiful supply of marks and pfennigs. Every store and shop shows evidence of the American occupation, and the desire of the proprietor thereof to acquire the mark and pfennig by catering to His Majesty, the doughboy.

Within a few days after entrance of American troops the more progressive stores blossomed out with signs in English and cards announcing that "American is spoken here." The postcard photographers began to reap a harvest snapshotting American soldiers. Their windows are filled with sample photographs of Americans ranged alongside of the old stock of frowning German colonels and grinning German soldiers posed with their rifles held stiffly at attention. One business college has started a course in English, plastering the town of Coblenz with advertising offering to teach English in three weeks. Before the regulation prohibiting sale of liquor cafe-owners discovered the peculiarities of the American palate and were advertising Manhattan and Bronx cocktails and a concoction labeled "Pershing cocktail" on the same menus with "Hindenburg Punch."

The astute German business man soon discovered the overpowering desire of the Americans for souvenirs, and several new souvenir shops were opened, advertising "Souvenirs of the War," and selling cheap jewelry with the Iron Cross design and the German imperial coat of arms. The postcard shops, which have been in hard luck since the flocks of tourists ceased junketing up and down the Rhine, began to do a landoffice business.

The German military tailors in Coblenz who were in the depths of black despair when the German army withdrew, perked up when they found they could sell their stocks of gaudy helmets and military insignia to Americans for twice the market price. Some of them advertise to make American uniforms if the cloth is furnished.

Many of the restaurants are printing their menus partly in English and specializing in American dishes, and several even advertise "American ice-cream," which, although expensive, is passably good.

When the order came that troops attached to the Third army must wear an insignia consisting of little concentric circles in red, white and blue around the letter "A," the German tailors got busy and within a day or two were displaying samples of the army insignia.

At least one dealer in notions had an unexpected windfall. At the outbreak of the war he had on hand a large stock of the flags of all nations, including several hundred American flags, which he had been selling to restaurant keepers to decorate tourist tables. Upon his return home after demobilization this canny shopkeeper soon found that he could sell the American flags to truckdrivers to decorate their motor-trucks. His stock was soon exhausted.

German shopkeepers are amazed at the strange wants of the American souvenir hunters. For instance, they cannot understand why husky doughboys want women's paper corsets, substitutes for shoes manufactured with wooden soles and cloth or paper uppers, paper tablecloths, paper bed-sheets, and the hundred and one substitutes which the shops have on sale. One doughboy upset the routine of one of the big stores by trying to buy a suit of women's paper underwear. With a half-dozen words of German and a wealth of appropriate gestures he vainly tried to put over the idea. The whole staff of the store was gathered to watch his antics when a German-speaking soldier entered and came to his aid. The amazement of the crowd was undisguised, but he got the underwear.

Another soldier left a trail of wonderment when he entered a millinery store and came away with one of the women's hats that had been displayed in the window. He explained he wanted to send it to his sister.

Despite their mystification at the needs of the American doughboy, the shopkeepers are rapidly adapting themselves to the new order of things, and proving that the trade follows the mark and the pfennig, regardless of color of the flag under which it comes.

mittee instructed to formulate a plan for buildings and laying out of grounds, the probable expense of building, parking, etc., exclusive of cost of the ground.

Messrs. Kirk and Jackson were made a third committee to investigate the probable cost of the land, the plot mentioned being the two blocks between Kenwood and Isabel, Broadway and Wilson avenue excluding therefrom the Methodist Church property. This committee was also to visit the Glendale Sanitarium and get an estimate of what it would cost to purchase and tear down its buildings.

A fourth committee on legal procedure consisted of Messrs. Jones and Chandler.

Mr. Jay, secretary of the meeting, was instructed to send invitations to all civic, religious, educational, fraternal and other organizations interested in the welfare of Glendale inviting them to appoint committees to meet with the joint committee at a later date, probably March 10th.

The idea is that the whole public of Glendale must be interested in the project to make it a success. If the community does not want it and will not back it, the committee wants to drop it now. If the community approves, the committee members will do all they can to put it through.

"A park and civic center," Mr. White points out, "would be a living memorial, something the soldiers could use and that the whole community could enjoy with them, a more fitting tribute than any marble shaft suggesting the grave could possibly be. Glendale has long needed a park and here would be a happy combination of park, civic center and memorial in one." He believes it will have the unanimous support of Glendale.

"WINGED WORDS"

the brotherhood of man. Almost everything the founder of Christianity said is an expression of the fundamental ethics of democracy. St. Paul himself said in beautiful phrase "You have been called unto liberty." Brotherhood, equality, fraternity are preached again and again in the literature of our religion."

She showed that it was a long time before either history or the drama could concern itself with anything except the doings of kings and heroes, that even the great Shakespeare liked to draw his characters from the titled folk of the world, but now the drama is completely democratized.

The novel, coming late into literature, had never been an aristocratic form of literature, she said. From its beginnings when Fanny Burney wrote "Evelina" it had dealt with the average person.

"That form of literature which has most appealingly kept within it the expression of democracy which today is most potent in carrying the influence of democratic principles, is the poetic form," she said, "and there have been generations when it divided honors with oratory, but no longer is that true. Shelley said: 'Poets are the unacknowledged legislators of the world.'"

"Byron, Keats, Wordsworth broadened the thought of England and widened its vision."

She referred to Lowell, Longfellow, Whittier, Whitman as "that group of loyal, splendid democrats" and indorsed Lyman Abbott's declaration that Julia Ward Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic" should be made the National anthem. In Emerson's hymn, "By Night to the Watching Pilgrims Came," she found one of the finest poetic expressions of democracy.

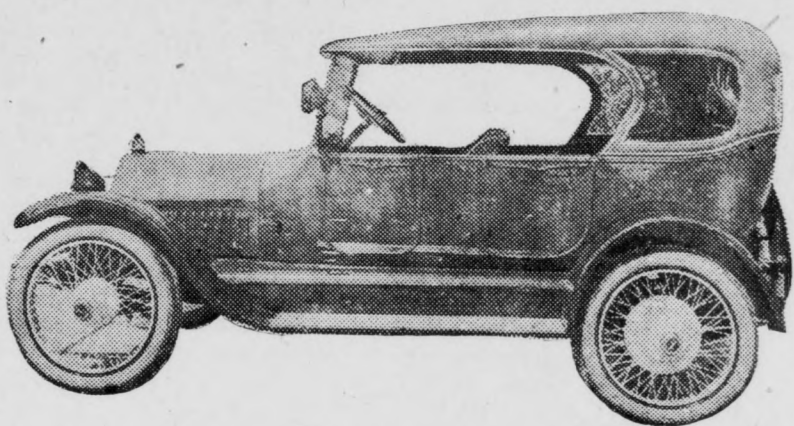

She referred to what she considered the strange attitude of Senators Borah, Poindexter, Lodge and others who, she said, "seem to think it was never supposed America would be interested in the great needs of humanity," and she added, "you are going back to your Longfellow, Lowell and Whittier to find the splendid declarations of men who saw fifty, sixty, ninety years ago and interpreted in their poetry, the democratic principles of America. I like to recall Longfellow's 'Building of the Ship' and Lowell's 'Commemoration Ode to Lincoln.'"

The last part of her theme she embroidered beautifully by readings from Richard Hovey and from poems and other literature of the war, calling attention to the vastness of that literature by the statement that the war library collected by Great Britain numbers thirty thousand volumes, and that fifty poets of real greatness were found in the trenches of the allies, some of whom will not return.

She read from John McCrae's "Rendezvous with Death" and "In Flanders Fields," Beatrice Barry's poem "To the Medical Corps," John Finley's poem on "The Red Cross," Catherine Lee Bates' "America! America!" Henry Van Dyke's "It's Home Again and Home Again, America for Me," Christopher Marlow's tribute to Kitchener, which, she declared, makes clear that "you cannot pay for some things in money. Living sacrifices call for living values, and the living manhood that gathered under Kitchener and fought for his country is his memorial."

In closing, she said, "When we are hoping to see a league of nations we must remember that it rests upon the individual, upon the morale of the individual, the strength of the individual factor."
